$2,000 LOSS IN HOUSE ROBBERY

Jackman Home, Unoccupied, Thoroughly Ransacked—Clothing and Silver Taken.

A loss of what is estimated at $2,000 was suffered when robbers ransacked the home of the late C. W. Jackman, 117 South Division street Monday evening. After making a systematic search of all the rooms they escaped through the rear door with women's clothes, silverware and other articles.

The robbery was discovered Tuesday by Dr. J. R. Whiffen, a neighbor, who noticed the rear door was open. The robbers were unopposed since the death of Mr. Jackman there has been no one living there. Mrs. C. W. Jackman having moved to Madison where she lives with her son, Attorney Ralph W. Jackman.

Investigation disclosed that the house had been entered through a basement window; the glass of which had been cut away. The police were notified Tuesday afternoon and are making an investigation. A cardboard packing box, which had apparently been brought in which to carry the articles away, was found in one room. Every closet and drawer in the house had been systematically searched.

Ralph Jackman came down from Madison Tuesday and after an inventory estimated the value of the stolen articles at $2,000, which he stated was covered by burglar insurance. That the loss was not greater was due to the fact that most of the articles of value, with the exception of a large amount of clothing belonging to Mrs. Jackman, had been removed prior to her moving to Madison to make her home.

"Right now is the time to cull out poor producing cows," declared M. T. Miller, milk taster for the Rock County Farm Bureau.

"In recent tests I found 11 samples which showed a test below three percent and 19 around three percent out of 40 tests. That goes to show that the farmers should get rid of the low producers since there is a surplus of milk."

TRAIN USED TO HIDE CRIME IN INDIANA MURDER

Above, at left, Virgil Decker, who left on auto trip with murdered youth, Le Roy Lovett, and spot where the body and wrecked buggy were found. Below, cabin where murder was committed and Fred Decker, brother of Virgil, who is beneficiary in the $30,000 insurance policies carried by Virgil.

A partial confession has been obtained from Virgil Decker, one of the principal figures in Indiana's weirdest murder mystery. Le Roy Lovett, chum of Virgil's, was found dead, mangled by a railroad train near Atwood, Ind., March 12. Relatives of Decker at first claimed the body as his. It wore his clothes. Virgil was missing. Virgil, found later, now says he accompanied Lovett from his home in Elkhart, Ind., to Goshen and to a cabin on the Tippecanoe river, where Lovett was murdered and then hauled to the railroad in an old buggy. Decker says he didn't remember who attacked Lovett. Virgil Decker carries $30,000 insurance. His brother Fred being the beneficiary. The similarity in build and appearance of Virgil and Le Roy Lovett was striking.

Expect Changes in Schedule of St. Paul Trains

Changes in the train schedules of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway affecting Janesville will go into effect next Sunday, according to word received here Wednesday from Chicago. Definite times have not yet been announced.

The biggest change expected is on the Madison division. Train No. 142, arriving here daily except Sunday at 11:05 a. m., is expected to reach here from Madison at 10:30 under the new arrangements and depart at 10:40 a. m. instead of 11:15. This 10:40 a. m. train will make connections for Davis Junction and the Pacific Limited to points west of the junction and to the coast. To make this possible it is expected that Train No. 142, daily, will leave here at 10:40 a. m. instead of 10:50 as at present. This is a change which travelers have advocated since the rearrangement in time tables last November.

On the Mineral Point division, Train No. 8, daily except Sunday, is expected to leave here at 10:15 a. m. instead of 10:30 for Milwaukee. Train No. 131-21 from Milwaukee, now arriving here at 9:35 daily except Sunday, is expected to leave here for Mineral Point about 10:50 instead of 11:20 at present.

Both night trains from Chicago will change, according to a later information. This will give a later train No. 137, due here now at 7:00 p. m., daily except Sunday, will arrive about 6:50, and No. 143, due at present from Chicago at 8:50 p. m., will arrive at 10:25, daily except Sunday.

These changes, it is stated, are not yet official. Passengers expecting to travel on Sunday are advised by the St. Paul officials to apply at the depot to make sure of train time.

URGES MORE CARE IN CHOOSING SEEDS

La Prairie Farm Bureau Members Hear Talk by U. of W. Expert.

More careful selection of pure bred and pedigreed seeds together with more attention to the care of soils is urged in Rock county as the practical method of increasing the yield per acre.

E. V. Holden representing the farm crop department of the University of Wisconsin spoke on the value of using better seeds during a Farm Bureau meeting held in La Prairie township Tuesday night.

He urged that the farmers make the experimental station in Madison produce results for the practical farmer.

Use Better Seeds.

"That is what we want—to produce something that is worth while for the farmer," explained Mr. Holden.

"We want you to try out the seeds we have experimented with and found adapted to this section and to your soils. Put your grain seeds through a competitive test on different types of soils, discarding the varieties that do not yield well under similar conditions."

The farmers want seeds that have uniform maturity. That comes from tests within a variety. It takes years of breeding and selection to obtain the best strain within a variety. Keep your seeds pure and year after year take the best for your seed. You will increase the acreage without additional labor or cost," said Holden.

The methods used at the Wisconsin Experiment station for the developing of pure bred and pedigreed seed were explained. Farmers were urged to take these seeds and develop them, exercising care in obtaining the right type for local climate and soil conditions.

An interesting fact of whether the use of chemical fertilizer would cause early maturity of corn was discussed. Farmers present who have experimented, declared that a generous use of the chemicals assures earlier corn by from ten days to two weeks.

Sunflowers for Silage.

Sunflowers were considered as a new silage crop. Experiments are being made with a new crop in the northern section of the state.

"I don't recommend the sunflower in the southern section where you have a good yield of corn," explained Mr. Holden.

"It is a better promise of producing something for the more northern sections where the corn has the climate 'to buck'."

In Rock county you can raise soy-beans, using care in selecting your seeds, with your corn to make a rich silage.

Farmers should use high test fertilizer in preference to the low test, declared County Agent R. T. Glasco.

"We want the farmers to try out this method of increasing yield through a series of demonstration trials."

Will Spray Orchards.

There is to be a series of demonstrations in La Prairie township for spraying, pruning, culling, the raising of soy beans, use of lime on legume crops as a result of the meeting Tuesday night.

"Growers have a right on their hands to save their fruit trees," declared Agent R. T. Glasco.

"I hope that the Farm Bureau will buy a power sprayer, which can be used by the farmers. We are going to save the orchards."

A committee was appointed composed of C. E. Culver, Frank Morse and John Corey for the holding of the Plymouth township bureau play, "Deacon Dubba," in La Prairie. E. S. Smith presided Tuesday.

We have got things to learn and we can learn them best through the township demonstrations," was the attitude of the farmers present.

Mrs. Ehrlinger Heads P-T Ass'n

A Lincoln-Douglas Parent-Teachers association met for the Tuesday evening at the Douglas school at a successful meeting of 150 parents and teachers of that district and representatives from other local schools.

The four from here won a photograph record for securing the largest number of parents, 21.

Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. E. Ehrlinger, president; Miss Katherine Schaefer, vice-president; Mrs. A. H. Shekey, secretary; and Mrs. Dancy, treasurer. Among those who talked were Mrs. Arthur Fisher, Mrs. Charles Timan, Miss May Jarke, Miss Janet Gody, Mrs. Fernando Cumberly and George Craft, Supt. Frank Holt, Supt. J. M. Dorrans and Miss Bertha Rogers. Miss Mabel Fritz led in community singing. A social time followed.

WALL STREET BOMB SUSPECTS HELD IN SECRECY

(By Associated Press.)

New Orleans.—The five men landed in from Tuesday from the American steamer "Rushville," which brought them from El De Janeiro at the request of the American consul there still were held behind a screen of secrecy Wednesday. Detailed technically on charges of murder, but not to be divulged of knowledge of the September Wall street bomb explosion, the men were allowed to have no visitors and were carefully guarded by authorities.

The five, all of whom appear to be well educated seamen, gave their names as Philip Bender, Lionel Kuebrezzuf, Rudolph Dorsch, Hans Rindt and Henrik Lipman.

URGES MORE CARE IN CHOOSING SEEDS

La Prairie Farm Bureau Members Hear Talk by U. of W. Expert.

More careful selection of pure bred and pedigreed seeds together with more attention to the care of soils is urged in Rock county as the practical method of increasing the yield per acre.

E. V. Holden representing the farm crop department of the University of Wisconsin spoke on the value of using better seeds during a Farm Bureau meeting held in La Prairie township Tuesday night.

He urged that the farmers make the experimental station in Madison produce results for the practical farmer.

Use Better Seeds.

"That is what we want—to produce something that is worth while for the farmer," explained Mr. Holden.

"We want you to try out the seeds we have experimented with and found adapted to this section and to your soils. Put your grain seeds through a competitive test on different types of soils, discarding the varieties that do not yield well under similar conditions."

The farmers want seeds that have uniform maturity. That comes from tests within a variety. It takes years of breeding and selection to obtain the best strain within a variety. Keep your seeds pure and year after year take the best for your seed. You will increase the acreage without additional labor or cost," said Holden.

The methods used at the Wisconsin Experiment station for the developing of pure bred and pedigreed seed were explained. Farmers were urged to take these seeds and develop them, exercising care in obtaining the right type for local climate and soil conditions.

An interesting fact of whether the use of chemical fertilizer would cause early maturity of corn was discussed. Farmers present who have experimented, declared that a generous use of the chemicals assures earlier corn by from ten days to two weeks.

Sunflowers for Silage.

Sunflowers were considered as a new silage crop. Experiments are being made with a new crop in the northern section of the state.

"I don't recommend the sunflower in the southern section where you have a good yield of corn," explained Mr. Holden.

"It is a better promise of producing something for the more northern sections where the corn has the climate 'to buck'."

Luscious California Oranges!

—Buy Them Now

SWEET, juicy, SUNKIST Oranges—California's delicious fruits—are in plentiful supply at all first-class stores.

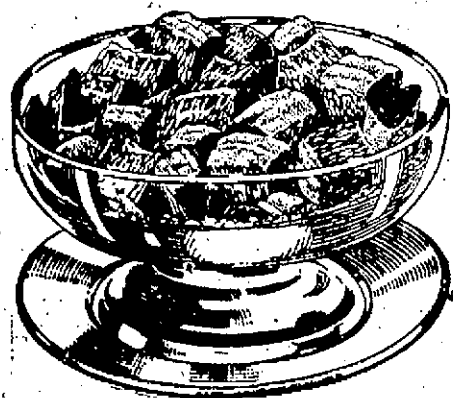

Taste them—see how good they are. Use them in the several ways described below. Eat more oranges and less of heavier foods. Let them help to keep the family well.

Buy a dozen and keep them within reach—in your pantry, in a bowl on your sideboard, in a dish in the living room, on a plate in the bedroom to eat just before retiring.

Get the habit of eating at least one orange daily. Start it now.

Let Oranges Serve You in These Ways

Busy-day Desserts For Shopping and Sewing Days

Delicious dishes—tempting, dainty and attractive in appearance—are prepared in a jiffy when you have oranges at hand.

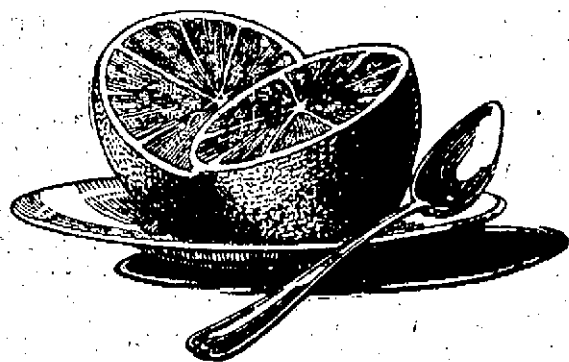

You simply slice, cut or chop them, and serve them plain, or with coconut, bananas or other fruit or nuts for the greater variety. Such food is both salad and dessert. And, best of all, it's the healthful kind.

You don't have to cook these dainty dishes. Serve them often and save time.

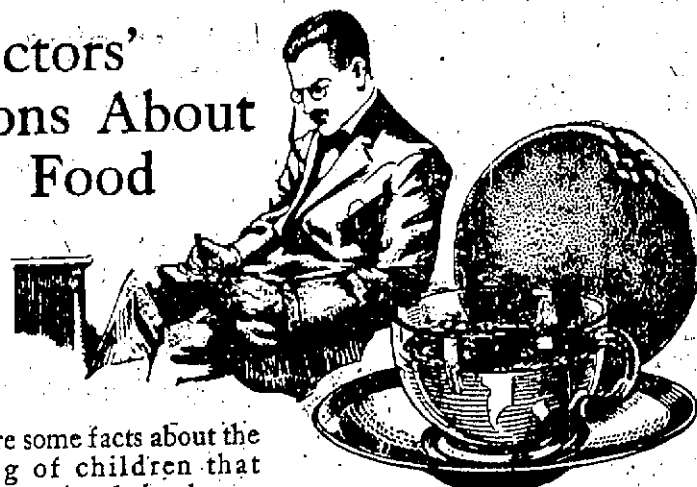

A Man's Breakfast Fruit

Note the men who are always bright-eyed and alert. They are usually the lovers of fresh fruit.

Oranges are a real man's breakfast fruit—see that your men folks get the healthful salts and acids of the orange every morning.

93 Doctors' Opinions About Baby's Food

HERE are some facts about the feeding of children that every mother will be glad to know. We asked this question of 118 physicians—"What fruit is best for children under three years of age?"

One hundred and seven mentioned oranges as one of the most beneficial fruits.

Ninety-three of the 107, or nearly 87 per cent, designated oranges without referring to other fruits.

"Oranges (juice) form a valuable article in the dietary of the infant and child, and one that is with difficulty replaced by any other fruit," said one.

"I know of no other fruit that is so excellent for the human being from infancy to old age," was another's view.

"Some fruit juice should be given to most healthy children every day. . . . The best fruit juice is that of the orange, which should be fresh and sweet." The last is the belief of one of America's most renowned baby specialists.

We could add endless comment. But, better than that, we refer you to your own physician. Show him these statements. Ask him what he thinks and be guided by his advice.

The following is quoted from the "Keep Well Series," circulated by the Government through the Treasury Department, United States Public Health Service:

"Bottle-fed babies should have orange juice each day after the first month."

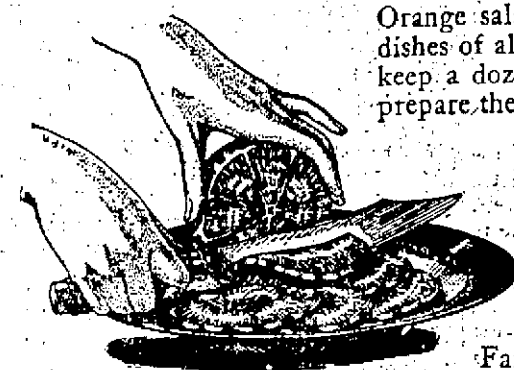

Five-minute Lunches For Busy Women

You can make a meal of oranges—a quick, delicious meal. There's nothing else so good, and there's no cooking, fuss or trouble.

Five minutes, and you have a luscious fruit dish, a cup of tea and bread and butter. And that's as healthful and as nourishing a noon repast as any woman wants on busy days.

For Easy Entertaining

Orange salads and desserts are the handiest dishes of all when entertaining. It is easy to keep a dozen in the house, and it is easy to prepare them in different and attractive ways.

Sunkist oranges, being practically seedless and meaty, slice easiest and look best in salads and desserts.

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER ONE
JIM AND JAMES
"It had thought that I would appreciate my new life the more after a taste of the old, I did not come back to Henry Falls. But my motive, of course, was more than that. It was, really, to give Esther a chance to rest and see the city, to get hold of herself once more, to be away from Jim long enough so each would feel the separation, and enjoy the reunion."

"Oh, by the way," I said, trying to sound casual. "Esther can get some things cheaply now. I see that all the stores are having sales. You'd better send her some money now, if you are going to do it." "She wouldn't spend it, on herself," Jim protested. "Wouldn't she? Try her and see." And Jim did, as I learned later. Every day I had a short note from Francis. He was working hard, but each evening, from his club, he sent me some message. And he had the daily papers mailed up to me, and some magazines as well. These I put on the table in our sitting room, though there was little enough time to read any of them.

But I found Jim enjoying the city papers as well as the one paper he formerly permitted himself. So I wrote Francis to send him a subscription to an agricultural paper, and James and I, in a hot water system—you've no idea the time and work and strength you'd save Esther."

"But the price—" "No more than you offered to send to Vi," I said. "It needn't be so elaborate. A tank in the attic—you already have the windmill for pumping water to the house—some pine, needn't go outdoors for every pall of water, a coil connected with the stove."

"Eventually that, too, was arranged. And, little by little, I was making things smoother and happier for Esther's home-coming."

I had been there a month when I came back, and telling me, eventually, of the ending of the case in which Bud's good name was involved. I opened the letter with a little feeling, and I was surprised to find it was something nice.

"She does," agreed Jim.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR JOE:
What would you say if I told you I'd bought a $2.00 phonograph? Anyway, I didn't. But a man came around yesterday and he was selling a machine called the Pianagan Triangular. Did you ever hear of a phonograph called that, Joe? Well, neither did I until this man started to tell me all about it, and how if I ever heard this particular kind I'd never want to listen to another.

But the thing that finally induced me to try it, Joe, was his argument about making housework a pleasure instead of a penalty by doing it to music. He said all I'd have to do was to turn on a lively, jazzy tune whenever I wanted to dust or anything, and then I'd go through all the motions to the music and I'd feel like I'dora Duncan at her best instead of a household slave at her worst.

So today I let him bring a Pianagan Triangular around and I put on a record called "Jazzing with Jazz in Jazzyland," and started to dust the furniture. Well, I kept time to the music all right, but my goodness Joe it made me feel so alive and flighty and light minded that I couldn't hit the furniture with the cloth at all and just kept flapping it around in the air. I can't deny that I enjoyed it, but the point was, I didn't accomplish anything. So I made him take the Pianagan Triangular away again and after this I think I'll make him my Pianagan maid do all the dusting anyway, so I practically saved $100 in installment payments on the transaction and I'm thinking of buying a new dress with part of it.

Why do you suppose Ford is so down on the Jews, Joe? Do you suppose it's because the ones with lots of money would rather buy a regular car and the ones with only a little money would rather hear it rattle than hear a Ford rattle? Anyway, Joe I think the Jews are real useful. Weren't they the first ones to translate the Bible from the original Greek?

Well, du reibst but not good by. Lovingly, Tessie.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

About the most interesting group on the film today is the little group of comedians who surprise us every once in a while by becoming regular dramatic actresses and leading women or stars. And one of the prettiest and most vivacious of all of them is Dorothy Devore, the little girl who for two years has been playing the dainty heroine of those high-amusing one-reel Christie comedies.

Miss Devore, whose real name, by the way, is Inez Williams, was born in Fort Worth, Texas. She went to California with her parents when she was 11 and entered a girls' school. She started her stage work by singing in vaudeville, not because she longed for the stage, but because she had a little voice and wanted to support her mother. She was about to start east for an engagement with a large company when she had an offer from Lee and Moran. That started her in pictures and the rest of the story is told in some 50 or more pictures she has made since that time.

Miss Devore has two aims aside from her histrionics. One is to go to New York, where she has never been, and she wants to take her mother with her for a year's travel. And she will do it, too.

DOUG'S NEXT
The next vehicle for Douglas Fairbanks, following the publication of "The Nut," his fifth United Artists production, scheduled for release about April 1, will be Alexander Dumas' world-famous story, "The Three Musketeers."

It is the intention of Fairbanks to engage one of the world's best known dramatists to adapt this tale to the requirements of the camera. Several playwrights are now being considered for this delicate task, among them being Edward Knoblock, who gave to the speaking stage such notable works as "All's Well That Ends Well," "The Merchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Shakespeare."

Play in the fourth game of the world's chess championship tournament at Havana opens Wednesday. The first three matches were draws.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl 16 years of age. I have many girls friends whom I like very much. We know a lot of boys who always speak to us, but those boys ask the other girls to go places with them and they never ask us. I know that none of the girls are extraordinarily pretty and I am as good looking as they.

I would be very grateful to you if you would tell me why boys never take me any place. When the other girls go with boys I always have to go with my mother. I love my mother dearly but you can imagine how I feel.

You are really fortunate not to be sought after by boys, but you will realize the fact that you are older. A girl of 16 is in love with love. She is too young to show discretion in her choice of a lover, and as a result has many unsatisfactory romances before she is wise. You may think you only want friendship, but in the majority of cases friendship turns into indifference or into love. It is true, however, that a girl who will not permit love-making and who is interesting can enjoy and benefit by genuine and wholesome friendships.

Boys of 16 are self-conscious and as a rule are ashamed of their own bodies. When you are two or three years older and when the boys you know are older you are just as apt to be popular as your girl friends. Popularity is short-lived, but the girl has charm as well as a fair amount of good looks. Study and improve yourself and you will have a good foundation to be interesting later.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman, but my husband and I are separated. He wants to ruin around and expects me to make the living. Do you think I would be justified in getting a divorce from him or should I wait until he gets tired of roaming around and wants to come home?

He decided to play a lone hand except for such help as Johnnie could give him. Clay took a downtown car and rode to the cross street mentioned in the letter for a preliminary tour of the street designated investigation. The street was one of brown stone fronts with iron-grilled doors. The blank faces of the houses invited no confidence. It struck him that there was something sinister about the place, but he pushed it aside. He was born of fear. Number 121 had windows barred with ornamental grilles. This might be to keep burglars out. It might serve equally well to keep prisoners in.

At the nearest grocery store Clay made inquiries. He was looking, he said, for James K. Sanger. He did not know the name. Could the grocery man help him run down his party? How about the folks living at Number 121? They've been in only a few days. They don't trade here.

Clay tried the telephone, but information could tell him only that there was no phone at 121.

On the whole, Clay seemed to think that the letter was not a forgery. In his frank, outdoor code there was no reason why Durand should hate him enough to go to such trouble to trap him. The fellow was a man, and he had been with him outside the Sea Siren. Why should he want to do anything more to him? But he had had two warnings that the ex-prizefighter was not through with him—both of them from members of the police force, one direct from the sergeant who had helped rescue him, the other by way of the Runt, a street hound.

When he recalled the savage hatred of that flat, pallid face he did not feel so sure of immunity. Clay had known men in the West, wolf-hunters, who stepped in a horrible just revenge, who never forgot or forgave an injury—until their enemy had paid the price in full. Jerry Durand might be of this stamp. He was a man of bad reputation, one about whom evil murmurs passed in secret. Not many years ago he had been tried for the murder of one Faddy Kelly, a rival prizefighter in his neighborhood, and had been acquitted on the ground of self-defense. But there had been a good deal of talk about evidence framed in his behalf. Later he had been arrested for graft, but the case somehow had never been acted upon by the district attorney's office. The whisper was that his pull had saved him from trial.

The gentleman did not linger in that street lined with houses of sinister faces. He did not care to call attention to his presence by staying too long. Besides, he had some arrangements to make for the night at his rooms.

These were simple and few. He oiled and loaded his revolver carefully, leaving the hammer on the one shot left empty to prevent accidents after the fashion of all careful gunmen. He changed into the wrinkled suit he had worn when he reached the city, and substituted for his shoes a pair of felt-soled gymnasium ones.

The bow-legged little puncher watched his friend, just as a faithful dog does his master. He asked no questions. In good time he would be told all that was necessary for him to know.

As they rode from the Bronx, Clay outlined the situation and told his plans so far as he had any. "I'm going to take a whirl at it, Johnnie. Maybe they're in 'up' at it. Maybe the real thing. You can search me which it is. The only way to find out is to go through with the

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without any undesirable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowels and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

thing. Your job is to stick around in front of the hacienda and wait for me. If I don't show up inside of thirty minutes, get the police busy right away. I've got to be in the place. Do you get me, Johnnie?"

"Lemme go with you into the house, Clay," the little man pleaded. "No, this is a one-man job. If the note is straight, I've got to be alone. Do exactly as I say. That's how you can help me best."

"What's the matter with me going to the house instead of you?" Clay didn't make no difference much if they do run me. I'm just the common run of the pen. But you're a graded stock," added the Runt.

"Nothing doing, old-timer. This is my job, and I don't reckon I'll let anybody else tackle it. Much obliged, just the same. You're one sure-enough white man, Johnnie. The little fellow knew that the matter was settled. But Johnnie worried about it all the way. At the last moment, when they separated at the street corner, he added one last word.

"Don't you be too venturesome, son. If them guys get you it sure would break me all up."

Clay smiled cheerfully. "There's no going to get me, Johnnie. Don't forget to remember your part. Keen under cover for thirty minutes; then if I haven't shown up, holler your head off for the cops."

They were passing an alley as Clay finished speaking. He slipped into his friendly darkness and was presently lost to sight. He ran into an inner court which was the center of ten small porches. The eddies of the wind, the faintest light, the faintest sound, must be the rear of the house he wanted.

A strip of lattice-work ran up the side of the entrance. Very carefully, testing every slat with his weight before trusting himself to it, he climbed up and edged forward. He was upon the roof. On hands and knees he crawled to the window and tried to peer in.

The blind was down, but he could see that the room was dark. What he wanted to see was the door. He could not make out the door, but he knew it was there. He waited a moment, to make sure that the revolver beneath his belt was ready for instant use, he put his hand gently on the latch.

His motions were soundless as the fall of snowflakes. The window moved slowly, almost imperceptibly, under the pressure of his hands. It gave out the faintest creak. Clay was in. He found the old-fashioned roller blind and traveled down it to the bottom. With the faintest of clicks he released the spring, and guided the blind upward.

Warily he lifted one leg into the room. His head followed, then the rest of his body. He waited, every nerve tense.

There came to him a sound that sent cold fingers down his spine. It was the intake of some one's cautious breathing. His hand crept to the butt of the revolver. He stood poised for either attack or retreat.

A both of light flooded the room and swallowed the darkness. Instantly Clay's revolver leaped to the air.

pages of manuscript. "And you might as well tell the whole thing there."

"Did you overhear the controversy between these two gentlemen?" asked the magistrate.

"No, sir, judge," replied the colored witness. "Ah didn't hear nuthin' in 'like that. All Ah heard was some pow'ful loud cussing."

Joseph and Isaac went to hear Billy Sunday preach, and after the service, as they were going home, Joseph said:

"I don't like him, said Isaac. "Too much hell. It was hell, hell, hell all the time. I don't believe there is any hell, Joseph."

"No," answered his friend. "Well, then, Isaac," said Joseph. "If there is no hell, where is business gone?"

"I see Black has got a four-thousand-dollar car."

"How did he get that four thousand?"

"Oh, he hasn't got that yet."

"So she refused you?"

"That's the impression I received. 'Didn't she refuse you?"

"No, she didn't. All she said was 'Ha-ha-ha!'"

Billy Whiskers

As is the invariable custom with all thrifty farm folk, the Treat family was as busy as soon as the sun had begun its journey across the sky. Just as the first bright streaks of light shot up from the horizon in the east, Mr. Treat went to the stock barn to do his morning chores, and his good wife was busy in her kitchen preparing the morning meal. The boys were eager to lend a hand—an extraordinary state of affairs, to say the least, but they were so brimming full of excitement at the prospect of the day before them that finally they were banished from the kitchen, their mother declaring them nuisances and far more of a hindrance than help.

"The little for in the valley is clearing fast, and by noon it will be warm enough for our picnic dinner in the maple grove."

quoted Mrs. Treat. "I was not worrying about the weather, for that sign never fails."

"Goody, Goody," exclaimed Dick. "The weather's perfect, and all her housewifery art was exerted to make it the best her oven could produce."

(But the lunch was destined to meet a bad fate.)

BOSTON'S MAYOR IS "HOBO" FOR A NIGHT

Mayor Andrew J. Peters of Boston chops wood to pay for night's lodging, at "Wayfarers' Lodge."

Mayor Andrew J. Peters of Boston was halted by the regular police guard recently when he attempted to enter his office forty minutes late. The man did not recognize his own boss. He was forgiven, however, because the mayor had on an old raincoat, a felt hat, a worn brown suit, and a faded flannel shirt. Muddy boots completed his disguise. The reason was soon explained. The mayor, who is an ardent socialist, a member of an old Boston family, wanted to know how it felt to be a "hobo," one of the unemployed in Boston, the town he is running. In order to do this he registered at the municipal "Wayfarers' Lodge" as John Stevens and spent the night there. He went through the whole process, official bath, fumigation, bed, breakfast and chopping wood for breakfast.

Warn Again Against Illegal Fishing as 3 Are Caught

WARDEN RELEASED MEN ON LECTURE; CLAM BILL PASSES

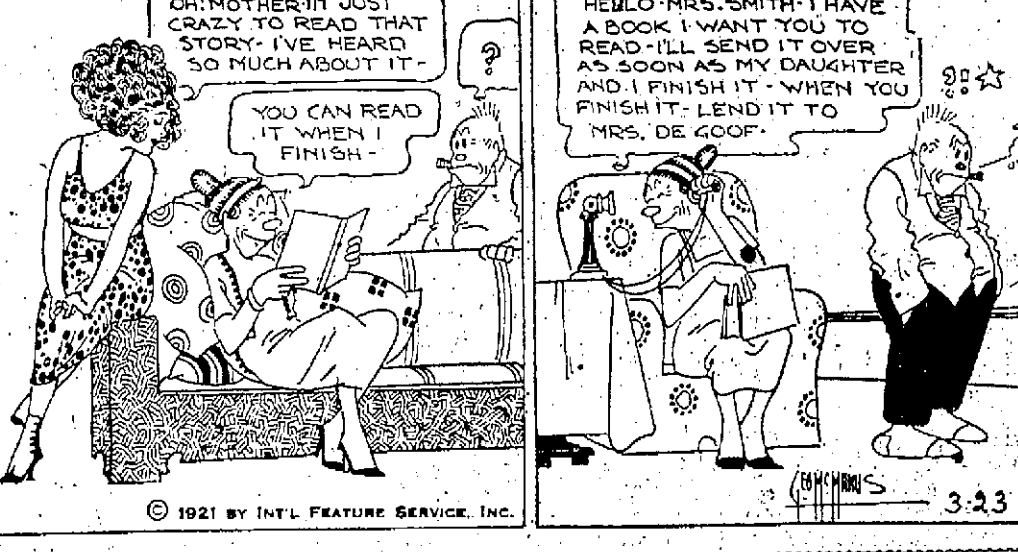

Snagging and spearing game fish in Rock river must stop, according to Deputy State Warden Andrew Samson of Madison. Quietly investigating rumors that the practice was in force here, the warden Tuesday apprehended three men within the limits of Janesville. After taking them into custody and severely reprimanding each, he let them go with the warning not to be caught again.

Two of the men were caught at the east side of the Fourth avenue bridge, one snagging and the other closed season to provide a year round bill on clams in Rock river is before Governor Dillman Wednesday for signature. According to word received here by Charles S. Snyder, secretary of the Rock County Game Protective association. The bill was passed because clam fishermen depend on the river bottom with their nets, it is river bottom spawning fish and fry. The move was started by Snyder and sponsored in the assembly by Alexander E. Matheson of this city.

snagging and spearing. The third was found at Monticello snagging. When it was learned that they were all in poor circumstances and were getting the fish to keep hunger from their doors, they were let go. The fine for snagging is $200, for spearing $50. The snags and spears were confiscated.

The warden is now tracing down information that he caught in Rock river is being sold for commercial purposes. This is violation of state laws. It is his belief that the fish are being caught in traps set up in the river. Eggs will be taken in the legislature to make hoop net fishing in the river illegal.

As a result, it is hard to hit.

WIZARD OF MENLO PARK CEBBRATES HIS BIRTHDAY WORKING IN LABORATORY

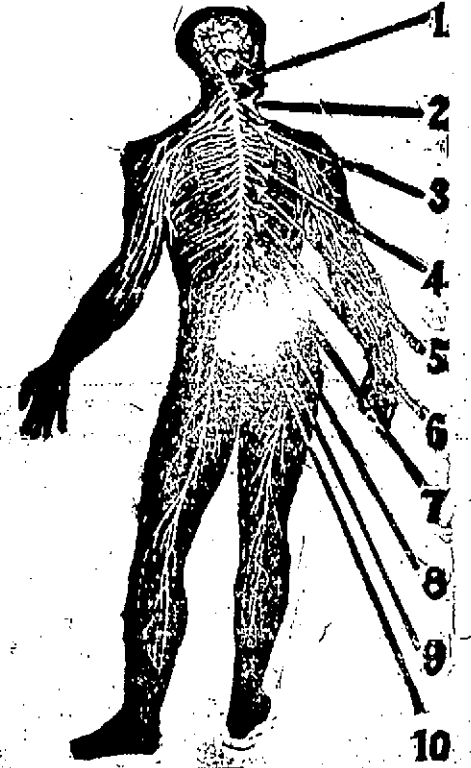

Thomas A. Edison in his laboratory.

Thomas A. Edison has just celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary. This photograph was taken shortly before his birthday and shows him at work on his experiments, as is his custom. He is busy for many hours a day in his experimental laboratory, from which has come world illuminating and labor saving devices without number. He has recently become interested in the question of communication between the living and the dead.

He's a Man "With Lots of Backbone"

Almost all of the proverbs and little every day expressions in common use, contain a nugget of truth. One speaks of a man of radiant health and strength of will and purpose as one "With Lots of Backbone."

1. Slight subluxations at this point will cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry neck, facial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, etc.
2. A slight subluxation of a vertebra in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, jaundice, dizziness, bleeding from nose, disorders of gums, catarrh, etc.
3. The arrow head marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine wherein subluxations will cause so-called bronchitis, fevers, pain between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, writers' cramp, etc.
4. A vertebral subluxation at this point causes so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles, etc.
5. Stomach and liver troubles, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called, are caused by subluxations in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
6. Here we find the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hiccuping, worms, etc.
7. Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, are caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
8. Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustments at this point.
9. Why have so-called constipation, rectal troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
10. A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones will likewise produce so-called catarrh, together with many "diseases" of the hips and lower extremities.

Disorders and irregularities of the backbone and spinal cord are the causes of many ailments. Those fortunate individuals whose vertebrae are exactly in place are invariably free from most so-called diseases and other ailments. They are healthy, strong physically and mentally—"they have lots of backbone" as the saying goes.

CHIROPRACTIC (Greek for "Hand Practice") is a new science. By scientific readjustments of the spine, paralyzing pressure on the nerves radiating from the spinal cord is relieved. Nature then takes up the work of restoration of health.

After you investigate CHIROPRACTIC you will understand how irregular conditions of the spinal column cause such ailments as deafness, asthma, stomach troubles and many other troubles which would seem—to the uninformed—to have no relation to the question of misplaced vertebrae.

FORDNEY TARIFF BILL TO BE REVISED

Emergency Measures Will be Passed But Changes Are Predicted.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington.—The decision of the republican leaders in congress in agreement with President Harding to pass the Fordney emergency tariff bill in the same form as it was vetoed by Woodrow Wilson at the last session of congress should be taken with a grain of salt.

An emergency tariff bill will be passed, that much is certain—but many things point to the probability of a revision of the Fordney measure before it can pass. Everybody knows that the Fordney bill as it passed both houses during the last session would have been a ghost of a show of passage if there had been the slightest chance of approval by Mr. Wilson. Accordingly many things were inserted in the bill, partly out of a desire to satisfy certain constituents and partly out of an effort to make sure that the bill would be sufficiently objectionable to the democratic executive as to bring about its veto.

Bill Called Unscientific.
Leading republicans have privately condemned the Fordney bill as unscientific. The plan to revise the measure and put it through both houses in the same form as it was passed last time because many American business houses affected by the measure will demand hearings and subsequent changes in the bill. When once the Fordney bill is opened up, other changes will be insisted upon. President Harding himself has already made one change—a request that the measure apply for six months instead of ten. This will mean certain changes because already certain changes in economic conditions have occurred which render necessary a readjustment.

Senator Penrose Indicated that he means to go along with the plan to pass the Fordney measure, which he originally wanted killed. There is a story that Mr. Penrose turned the management of the bill in the senate over to Senator McCumber of North Dakota in the belief that the latter by a combination with the republicans would surely pass the Fordney measure. But Mr. McCumber turned out to be an ardent champion of the bill.

The astute leaders of the republican congress are confronted with a perplexing problem. They know that to revise the tariff in the present state of world instability, with costs of production changing constantly, is to invite price levels to fluctuate and to attempt a dangerous job which may result politically. But on the other hand, there are men like Representative Fordney of Michigan, with whom the tariff is a fetish and who must have a tariff bill put through to bear his name along with Messrs. Aldrich, Payne, Dingley, and the other republican leaders of bygone days.

The real trouble, it is recognized, will come if the Fordney bill sends up the cost of living. Senator Aldrich admitted during the recent debate that the cost of sugar might rise and possibly other articles of food, but that it would help the farmer and other interests and therefore was a good thing in the long run. The politicians are not so sure that a rise in the cost of living right now would be received with enthusiasm by the great body of new voters who elect a new congress a year from next autumn. Eastern republicans are for the most part counseling caution, and are reminding the westerners of the fact that the republican party lost control of the house in 1910 on precisely the same issue—the alleged rise in the cost of living after the Payne-Aldrich tariff law was passed.

Fordney Has His Way
If the tariff were to yield an immense amount of revenue and relieve the mass of folks of the high income taxes, the leaders would come to speak in a different way. It is admitted, will not yield more than three or four hundred million dollars in a program of revenue raising that requires at last four billion dollars a year. The situation may be summed up thus: Mr. Fordney has had his way; there will be no tariff bill in a program of revenue raising that requires at last four billion dollars a year. The situation may be summed up thus: Mr. Fordney has had his way; there will be no tariff bill in a program of revenue raising that requires at last four billion dollars a year.

ORFORDVILLE
(By Gazette Correspondent.)

Orfordville.—Rural State Secretary Arman, Madison and County Secretary Arman of the U. M. C. A. were in the village on Monday and with the help of several local men made a canvass for the rural work of the association. Nothing definite was determined as to the disposition of the milk at the Milk Producers' association meeting Monday evening. Another meeting is called for Thursday night—April 1. Onward and James Mow will have charge of the county truck and grader which were sent to Orfordville last week by Commissioner Moore. They will look after the highway from the Green county line to the railroad tracks at Janesville during the coming season. It was stated in the Orfordville news items Tuesday that a daughter was born to Dr. Miller and wife. The newborn is a son. There will be a social held at the Methodist church on Friday evening. A program will be given and lunch served. A carload of western roots was received at the local siding Tuesday and was unloaded by farmers who will feed them. The Women's Study club is preparing the luncheon to be given at the Odd Fellows hall Wednesday evening.

SMUGGLES SAWS TO FATHER IN JAIL

Miss Verner Dorsett.

Miss Verner Dorsett, a young Atlanta, Ga., girl, was recently indicted by the Campbell County grand jury for having aided in the delivery of her father and four other prisoners at the Campbell County jail. She frankly admits she smuggled saws in the prison. Love for her father, an aged moonshiner, sentenced to serve two years, was the motive which led her to risk her own liberty in a successful attempt to liberate him. Now, her father said, she herself faces a prison term.

FARMER FAILS TO SEE REASON FOR LABOR SHORTAGE

"I cannot understand why more men do not want to go to work on the farm," declared D. F. Sayre, town of Porter, when unable to obtain an experienced farm hand at the office of the county agent Tuesday. "Farm work is interesting. It is the type of work over few weeks. Here there are many men out of work and need jobs. At the same time, farmers go begging for farm help. One would think that the men out of jobs would at least attempt to go on the farm for a month or more until industrial conditions improve. If the men out of jobs still insist the factory is better than the farm."

STATE BILL WOULD COST CITY $27,000

Mayor Fears City's Share of Income Tax May be Cut—Matheson "Up in the Air."

Fear is expressed by Mayor T. E. Matheson that the bill to cut down the city's share of the state income tax may be passed by the legislature despite the combined efforts of Wisconsin cities.

The bill is designed to reduce general state taxes by giving the cities only 40 percent of the income tax instead of 50 percent as now. The legislature seems to be afraid to levy a direct tax for state purposes and is taking this means of dodging the issue, said Mayor Matheson.

Matheson is aroused. Another hearing is to be held on the bill, Thursday, this time at a joint meeting of the finance and tax committees. Ford MacGregor, secretary of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities, will appear to fight for the cities' interests. At the last hearing, Assemblyman A. E. Matheson represented Janesville. In a letter to Mayor Matheson, he was following to say about the hearing Thursday.

"It is thought that something may come out of all this commotion which will be more satisfactory. Personally I feel very much 'up in the air' on the question of taxation and expenses. I wish we could have a thorough investigation and recommendation that would be accurate and scientific, free from political, factional and local prejudices. The question of taxation is such a broad and deep one that the average legislator feels uninformed and longs for expert and scientific information and guidance."

Heavy Loss to Cities.
Taking 20 percent of the income tax away from the cities and giving it to the state would cost Janesville about $27,000 on the basis of last year's figures. It would cost $30,000 on the basis of this year's figures. The present apportionment of the income tax is 10 percent to the state, 20 to the county and 70 to the city.

Farmers Favor Bill.
"As the cities pay practically all of the income tax," says Mr. MacGregor in a letter to Mayor Matheson, "this apportionment will place an extra burden on the cities of practically one and one-half million dollars per year which will go to reduce the direct state tax. The farmers will benefit from this and will naturally favor the bill. There are 44 farmers in the assembly."

Farmers Spray To Save Trees

Southern Wisconsin farmers are making an earnest fight to save orchard and fruit trees through pruning and spraying treatments. Many fruit bearing trees in Rock county are affected with the so-called "corky-skin" which robs the trees of their color and fruit bearing capacity.

Demonstrations are being held both in Rock and Jefferson counties. Walworth county is also active in the campaign to save the apple trees.

In Jefferson county J. M. Coyner is conducting a series of demonstrations similar to those being given by R. T. Glasse in Rock county. "Trees have got to be sprayed three times a year," said County Agent Glasse Tuesday. "The fruit trees are being ruined by the 'corky-skin' which robs the trees of their color and fruit bearing capacity. Spraying rings among the farmers are being organized whereby a number of farm owners use the same spraying outfit."

ARMY WANTS 2,500 ACTIVE OFFICERS

There are 2,500 positions open for officers in various branches of the United States army. The positions are offered by Postmaster J. J. Cunningham. They will be filled within the next two months, with salaries from $200 a month to $600. Preliminary examinations will be held at Camp Grant or University of Wisconsin, upon application; final examinations at these places on April 25, appointments will be made within two months after that time.

POST OFFICE AIDS LOCAL MERCHANTS

Great efficiency is given by the postoffice department here as a means of delivering parcels for Janesville merchants according to Postmaster J. J. Cunningham.

LOCAL BOND BUYERS MAY NOT BE CALLED

Janesville legal authorities are determining the local buyers legally entitled to hold the Blackhawk apartment bonds which are subject to a litigation in the Rock county circuit court. By the time the court case is called before Judge George Grimm it is believed the legal buyers of the bonds will be clear so they will not have to appear in court.

INCOME TAX NETS U. S. $125,000 HERE

$45,000 Increase Over Last Year Noted by Collector Mount.

With the rush of federal income tax returns over in Janesville and Rock County, J. J. Mount, deputy internal revenue collector, has turned his efforts to checking up on the returns and finding the delinquents. He is checking the information filed by Janesville concerns as to the salaries paid each employee.

The amount of taxes which the government will receive through the Janesville office is $125,000, which is $45,000 more than last year. The amount of money paid last year according to Mr. Mount was $80,000. Receipts from taxes collected by Mr. Mount this year amount to $20,751.75 which represents installments or full payments on returns filed. Only a quarter of the tax may be paid on filing returns. The average payment this year was approximately the same as last, according to Mr. Mount.

Turnage Sale will be held Saturday, March 26 at store of Miss Y. M. C. A., by Hustlers Class, M. E. Church.

BADGER RAILROAD TO CHANGE HANDS. PLAN EXTENSION

Negotiations are under way for the purchase of the 120 miles of the Wisconsin and Northern railroad by the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie or Soo railroad. Application for the purchase has been made before the state railroad commission. The figures announced in the application are the payment of approximately $25,000 a mile for the company's property. It is proposed to pay $100,000 in cash and the remainder in five percent consolidated gold bonds.

The Wisconsin and Northern railroad runs north from Appleton and its latest extension was to make a connection with the Soo line at Menasha. It is believed that the new owners, on obtaining the property in May, will extend the line further north to reach lumber regions. The new extension of the road is expected to aid in the development of the Wolfville region.

AMOS, REBERG CO.

At the State Capital

(By Associated Press.)
Madison—County clerks will have their expenses to their annual meeting paid by the county boards if the bill sponsored by Senator Ray J. Nye is accepted by the senate state affairs committee and the legislature.

Appearing before the committee Monday afternoon, Senator Nye pointed out that other county officers like county judges, school superintendents, circuit judges, highway officers, have their expenses paid to attend conventions and asked that county clerks be included in the list.

He is the most destructive of all animals and a bounty should be paid for killing them. Assemblyman Weitebiller declared to the senate state affairs committee Monday afternoon. A measure amending the existing statutes to include rats as destructive animals and to allow counties and townships the option of paying 5 cents bounty for every rat killed is proposed by Assemblyman Weitebiller.

Because city councils are not included as being a part of the senate, the committee asked permission to amend the proposal to this effect. The bill in the original form has already passed the assembly. Other animals are snakes, rattlesnakes, crows, and hawks.

The commission form of government in Wisconsin is due for a thorough airing by the special legislative committee appointed to carry out the suggestions of Gov. John J. Blaine for consolidation and elimination. The two upper house members have expressed themselves as determined to probe to the bottom of the problem, despite any attitude that may be shown by the members of the lower house, who will be in a majority.

Speaker Riley S. Young has not named the assembly representatives although two weeks have elapsed since a resolution passed both houses calling for the investigation. It is judged certain that he will choose conservative assemblymen who will not be interested in radical changes.

Ownership of slot machines confiscated and destroyed in the course of enforcement of state anti-gambling laws, are still entitled to the money contained in them. Attorney General William J. Morgan has held an opinion to the district attorney of Waushara.

The bill to purchase a portrait of ex-Governor Z. L. Phelan to have in the executive offices beside the pictures of past governors was finally disposed of by the assembly when it concurred in the senate bill appropriating $1,500 for the purchase. Since the debate over the picture started, Governor Philipp has purchased the picture of himself, painted by Christian Abrahamson, of New York, and which the artist valued at $20,000, but offered to state for $5,000.

The fight against the picture appropriation continued to the last. As a result, the picture of Governor Morgan was declared $1,500 was an excessive appropriation and said that as one who had studied art he knew a painting could be obtained for less.

A move to secure state aid for county fairs in Wisconsin was defeated finally 62 to 1 after it had been amended to a point when it was attacked by practically all of the members. The final strike against the measure came when Assemblyman Henry Lasko on an amendment cutting down the amount of state aid from 80 per cent to 40 per cent the premiums at county fairs. His explanation was that the amount of the amendment would mean a saving of $6,300 only served to bring out the argument that it would mean the death of county fairs, and the whole matter went down in defeat.

An offer to replace an automobile that blows out on Friday is just as logical a clause in a life insurance policy as a clause allowing such companies to increase the rate on a disability payment from one to one and one-half per cent G. A. Boisard, representing insurance companies of Wisconsin, declared while appearing against a measure to increase disability life insurance payments.

Insurance companies are receiving as premiums under the disability clause almost 50 per cent more than they pay out as losses, Stanley A. Anderson, of Des Moines, representing the Central Life insurance company, pointed out in his claim that the measure should be enacted into law.

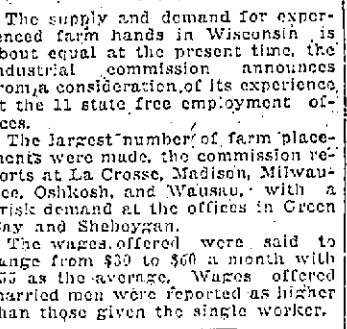

The problem of caring for Wisconsin soldiers suffering from mental diseases as a result of their experiences in the Great War was placed before the joint finance committee of the legislature Tuesday afternoon when it opened consideration of the Huber bill. An appropriation of $500,000 to build a state psychiatric institute as a memorial hospital is provided in the measure.

Amendment was offered by Senator A. W. Tullis providing for the location of the hospital at Jaychoedah on the property constructed in 1912 as a prison for women sentenced to a year or more for statutory offenses.

The problem presented by mentally unbalanced service men was directly presented to the committee. It was explained that approximately 600 cases needed attention in the state while provision was available for but slightly over 100. The danger of leaving the men without attention was emphasized by pointing to the case of Marshall O'Brien, Madison negro, who recently killed a minister and seriously wounded another negro.

Should the committee decide to grant funds for the new hospital, it was admitted that the structure would be erected in Madison in all probability. It would form part of the medical center which is intended to be built up here as an adjunct to the university medical school.

WEST'S SCHEME FOR WINTER CABBAGES

The man who had a little foresight and ambition last fall is now harvesting fresh cabbages, according to Alvin D. West, agriculture instructor at the high school.

Here is Mr. West's scheme for storing cabbages for winter use. Dig a trench in the soil about two feet deep and 14 feet long, making it just wide enough to admit a cabbage. Put the cabbages in it heads down and just as close together as possible. Fasten a wire to the stump of each cabbage and run it along to the end of the trench.

Make a roof of two boards 14 feet long and put it over the trench. Over this spread leaves and a layer of dirt. To get a cabbage take out the covering used to close the hole at the end of the trench and pull out a cabbage fine and crisp.

Storing vegetables for winter use, new hints on raising peas and a score of other agricultural schemes will be a part of the educational exhibition at the high school here, April 12-13. The public is invited.

Artificial Hen Hatches 40,000 Eggs at Sitting

NEW ARCHBISHOP OF PARIS NAMED

Cardinal Dubois.
According to reports from Paris, Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Rouen, has been appointed archbishop of Paris. He succeeds the late Cardinal Amette. Cardinal Dubois was born in St. Calais, diocese of Le Mans, in 1865. He was created and proclaimed Dec. 4, 1917.

Think of a hen that hatches around 40,000 eggs at one sitting and about 300,000 in a season!

For old birds, with her cluck and mean disposition during hatching season, is becoming obsolete. In the whirl of modern inventions man has devised a "Blue Hen" which puts the backyard hen in the background. All she can do nowadays is to cluck around the yard and lay eggs.

$8.00 For Hen
In Fort Atkinson John Muller and Alfred Gwyn have invested $3,600 in a "Blue Hen" that is a wonder. The first setting of the "Blue Hen" resulted in the hatching of 6,000 chicks. The next hatch was for 40,000 eggs valued at $12,500. So successful has been the huge artificial hen the owners expect to market 200,000 chicks from Fort Atkinson this season.

It takes about 21 days for the eggs to hatch. The "Blue Hen" is watched day and night during that period to see that the heat is maintained at an even 105 degrees temperature, for a variation either way, and about $12,000 worth of eggs are ruined and valueless, except as manure. To get a cabbage take out the covering used to close the hole at the end of the trench and pull out a cabbage fine and crisp.

Storing vegetables for winter use, new hints on raising peas and a score of other agricultural schemes will be a part of the educational exhibition at the high school here, April 12-13. The public is invited.

SUITS, NOT FROCKS

Miriam Clark, above, and Nella Gwyn.

These two bathing beauties are recent additions to the beauty contest of the Mack Sennett forces, and while bathing beauty as such is not exploited in the Sennett productions as was formerly the case, she still "figures" as a delightful adornment to those two-reel comedy features. She is not as unusual as she once was, either, for the modern 1921 miss resembles her very strongly when she walks upon the avenue in her short skirts with bare knees showing now and then.

Only the best grades of eggs are used. The market is carefully combed around Fort Atkinson among breeders of pure bred chickens. The company operating the "Blue Hen" pays five cents more than market price in order to assure the best quality of eggs for their big mechanical mother hen.

When hatched, the chicks, thousands and thousands of them, are mailed out by parcel post. They are placed in specially constructed boxes. From 25 to 100, less than 1 per cent die from being shipped though the United States mail.

After one batch of eggs is hatched, the "Blue Hen" is washed and cleaned and is ready for the next batch of 40,000. Heat is supplied by fuel, which assures a steady degree during the process of hatching.

The machine has a row of double tiers which hold the eggs.

The only trouble with the machine is that it cannot scrape around for worms and insects to feed the chickens, which are shipped soon after hatching, about 6,000 are hatched each week, and new eggs placed in the giant trays.
